CYE Moves To UC: Past, Present and Future

Exhibit: September 4-October 2, 2016, The Philip M. Meyers, Jr. Memorial Gallery

Opening Reception: Thursday, September 8, 5-7pm

The exhibition, "CYE moves to UC: Past, Present and Future," explores the history and multidisciplinary reach of the journal Children, Youth and Environments (CYE), and also celebrates the publication's transition from the University of Colorado to the University of Cincinnati in January 2016. CYE is an international, multidisciplinary online journal with readers in over 160 countries that disseminates peer-reviewed research articles, in-depth analyses, cutting-edge field reports, and critical book/film reviews on children, youth and their environments. The goal of CYE is to promote inclusive, sustainable, and healthy environments for children and youth. The exhibition will highlight the journal's rich history, spotlight prominent articles, the global photo library collection, and feature current initiatives on UC's campus. CYE Co-Editors, Drs. Vikas Mehta (DAAP), Victoria Carr (CECH), and Rhonda Brown (CECH) invite you to join us in commemorating this occasion and learn how you can connect with the Children, Youth and Environments network at UC.
